Deaths

Cyrus Brown.

Cyrus P. Brown died last Wednesday at Providence, R. I., at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Benjamin Smith. He was over 82 years of age.

Mr. Brown was born at Cape Sable Island, N. S. He followed the sea from this city as a cook, in his early years. He was a brother to the late James D. Brown who lived in this city and was also a popular cook. He is survived by four sons and five daughters and several grand children, also a sister, Mrs. Marjorie Smith of Clark's Harbor, N. S.

The funeral services were held at Coventry, R. I., on Sunday, where the deceased had resided for several years. Rev. R. Meader, officiated at the services. His nieces and nephews of this city attended. They and their husbands, including Lawrence Brown, Delwin Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carter, Mrs. Charles B. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunbar.

Mr. Brown visited here the last time, during the fishermen's races, last fall. He was in poor health, but insisted that his family arrange for him to make the trip. He secured a good view of the vessels and his visit was a great pleasure as it would be to one who had loved this city, and the sea, for many years.

RETURNING TO DODT

The auxiliary fishing Boston schooner Irene and Mabel returned to the Fish Pier yesterday to land Joaquin De Seterer, a member of the crew, who was injured the day the vessel arrived on the fishing grounds. A steel cable on the otter trawl snapped and struck him on the right side of the face. He was rendered unconscious and sustained severe lacerations and a possible fracture of the jaw.

The injured fisherman was taken to the Marine Hospital in Chelsea. The vessel left for the fishing grounds three days ago and Capt. Matthew Sears abandoned the trip after the accident and rushed home to obtain medical treatment for the injured man.
